proceedings of the 5th International Symposium on Visual Computing ISVC 2009 which was held in Las Vegas Nevada ISVC o
ers a common umbrella for the four main areas of visual c puting includingvision graphics visualization andvirtualreality

The goal is to provide a forum for researchers, scientists, engineers and practitioners throughout the world to present their latest research findings, ideas, developments and applications in the broader area of visual computing. This year the program consisted of 16 oral sessions, one poster session, 7 special tracks and 6 keynote presentations. Also this year ISVC hosted the Third Semantic Robot Vision Challenge. The response to the call for papers was very good; we received over 320 submissions for the main symposium from which we accepted 97 papers for oral presentation and 63 papers for poster presentation. Special track papers were solicited separately through the Organizing and Program Committees of each track. A total of 40 papers were accepted for oral presentation and 15 papers for poster presentation in the special tracks. All papers were reviewed with an emphasis on potential to contribute to the state of the art in the field. Selection criteria included accuracy and originality of ideas, clarity and significance of results and presentation quality. The review process was quite rigorous, involving two to three independent blind reviews followed by several days of discussion. During the discussion period we tried to correct anomalies and errors that might have existed in the initial reviews.

The text is pedagogically rich and explores a variety of approaches to help the reader gain a better understanding of the European media world. Students are encouraged to start thinking about statistics relating this to economics, analysing regulations and combining media theories with theories of European Union integration. The book also includes the use of case studies, illustrations, summaries, critical reflections and directions to wider reading. The European Media in the Digital Age is recommended for all Media Studies students and is also of key interest to students of Politics and Policy, Business Studies, International Studies and European Studies.

High-Performance Modelling and Simulation for Big Data Applications Joanna Kołodziej, Horacio González-Vélez, 2019-03-25
This open access book was prepared as a Final Publication of the COST Action IC1406 High Performance Modelling and Simulation for Big Data Applications cHiPSet project. Long considered important pillars of the scientific method, Modelling and Simulation have evolved from traditional discrete numerical methods to complex data intensive continuous analytical optimisations. Resolution, scale and accuracy have become essential to predict and analyse natural and complex systems in science and engineering. When their level of abstraction raises to have a better discernment of the domain at hand, their representation gets increasingly demanding for computational and data resources. On the other hand, High Performance Computing typically entails the effective use of parallel and distributed processing units coupled with efficient storage communication and visualisation systems to underpin complex data intensive applications in distinct scientific and technical domains It is then arguably required to have a seamless interaction of High Performance Computing with Modelling and Simulation in order to store compute analyse and visualise large data sets in science and engineering Funded by the European Commission cHiPSet has provided a dynamic trans European forum for their members and distinguished guests to openly discuss novel perspectives and topics of interests for these two communities This cHiPSet compendium presents a set of selected case studies related to healthcare biological data computational advertising multimedia finance bioinformatics and telecommunications

Meditation, Buddhism, and Science David McMahan, Erik Braun, 2017-09-20 The scientific study of Buddhist forms of meditation has surged in recent years capturing the popular imagination and reshaping conceptions of what meditation is and what it can do For perhaps the first time in history meditation has shifted from Buddhist monasteries and practice centers to some of the most prominent and powerful modern institutions in the world as well as non institutional settings As their contexts change so do the practices sometimes drastically New ways of thinking about meditation are emerging as it moves toward more secular settings ways that profoundly affect millions of lives all over the world To understand these changes and their effects the essays in this volume explore the unaddressed complexities in the interrelations between Buddhist history and thought and the scientific study of meditation The contributors bring philosophical cultural historical and ethnographic perspectives to bear considering such issues as the philosophical presuppositions behind practice the secularization of meditation the values and goods assumed in clinical approaches and the sorts of subjects that take shape under the influence of these transformed and transformative practices all the more powerful for being so often formulated with the authority of scientific discourse
