Bovens,1998-03-12 The search for responsibility in complex organisations often seems an impossible undertaking Adopting a multidisciplinary approach combining law social science ethics and organisational design Mark Bovens analyses the reasons for this and offers possible solutions He begins by examining the problem of many hands because so many people contribute in so many different ways it is very difficult to determine who is accountable for organisational behaviour Four possible solutions corporate hierarchical collective and individual accountability are analysed from normative empirical and practical perspectives Bovens argues that individual accountability is the most promising solution but only if individuals have the chance to behave responsibly The book then explores the implications of this approach What does it mean to be a responsible employee or official When is it legitimate to disobey the orders of superiors What institutional designs might be most appropriate Water Resources of the Umatilla
