Inter-imperiality Laura Doyle, 2020-11-02

In Inter-imperiality Laura Doyle theorizes the co-emergence of empires, institutions, language, regimes, stratified economies, and literary cultures over the longue durée. Weaving together feminist decolonial and dialectical theory, she shows how inter-imperial competition has generated a systemic stratification of gendered, racialized labor, while literary and other arts have helped both to constitute and to challenge this world order. To study literature is therefore, Doyle argues, to attend to world historical processes of imaginative and material co-formation as they have unfolded through successive eras of vying empires. It is also to understand oral, performed, and written literatures as power-transforming resources for the present and future. To make this case, Doyle analyzes imperial economic processes across centuries and continents in tandem with inter-imperially entangled literatures from A Thousand and One Nights to recent Caribbean fiction. Her trenchant interdisciplinary method reveals the structural centrality of imaginative literature in the politics and possibilities of earthly life.

Surfaces and Interfaces II John Burke, 2013-03-09

The Army Materials and Mechanics Research Center has conducted the Sagamore Army Materials Research Conferences in cooperation with the Metallurgical Research Laboratories of the Department of Chemical Engineering and Metallurgy of Syracuse University since 1954. The purpose of the conferences has been to gather together scientists and engineers from academic institutions, industry, and government who are uniquely qualified to explore in depth a subject of importance to the Army, the Department of Defense, and the scientific community. This volume, Surfaces and Interfaces II: Physical and Mechanical Properties, can be considered a continuation or perhaps an extension of the information contained in Surfaces and Interfaces I: Chemical and Physical Characteristics. The emphasis in this volume is focused on the technological significance of surfaces and interfaces: surface-sensitive mechanical properties, environment-sensitive properties, control of grain structure, and composite materials. It is felt that the rather ambitious undertaking of the program committee to place the role of surfaces and interfaces in its proper context has been achieved. The balance between basic research findings and more applied research allows the reader a certain degree of latitude in the use of the two volumes. The continued active interest and support of these conferences by Col. C. T. Riordan, Commanding Officer, Dr. E. Scala, Technical Director, and J. F. Sullivan, Deputy Technical Director of the Army Materials and Mechanics Research Center, is appreciated.

Advances in Research on the Strength and Fracture of Materials D.M.R. Taplin, 2013-10-22

ceramics and composites This volume is comprised of 40 chapters and opens with a discussion on progress in the development of elementary fracture mechanism maps and their application to metal deformation processes along with micro mechanisms of fracture and the fracture toughness of engineering alloys The next section is devoted to the fracture of large scale structures such as steel structures aircraft cargo containment systems nuclear reactors and pressure vessels Fracture at high temperatures and in sensitive environments is then explored paying particular attention to creep failure by cavitation under non steady conditions the effects of hydrogen and impurities on brittle fracture in steel and mechanism of embrittlement and brittle fracture in liquid metal environments The remaining chapters consider the fracture of non metallic materials as well as developments and concepts in the application of fracture mechanics This book will be of interest to metallurgists materials scientists and structural and mechanical engineers
