Rethinking Domestic Violence Donald G. Dutton, 2011-01-01 Rethinking Domestic Violence is the third in a series of books by Donald Dutton critically reviewing research in the area of intimate partner violence IPV The research crosses disciplinary lines including social and clinical psychology sociology psychiatry affective neuropsychology criminology and criminal justice research Since the area of IPV is so heavily politicized Dutton tries to steer through conflicting claims by assessing the best research methodology As a result he comes to some very new conclusions These conclusions include the finding that IPV is better predicted by psychological rather than social structural factors particularly in cultures where there is relative gender equality Dutton argues that personality disorders in either gender account for better data on IPV His findings also contradict earlier views among researchers and policy makers that IPV is essentially perpetrated by males in all societies Numerous studies are reviewed in arriving at these conclusions many of which employ new and superior methodologies than were available previously After twenty years of viewing IPV as generated by gender and focusing on a punitive law and order approach Dutton argues that this approach must be more varied and flexible Treatment providers criminal justice system personnel lawyers and researchers have indicated the need for a new view of the problem one less invested in gender politics and more open to collaborative views and interdisciplinary insights Dutton's rethinking of the fundamentals of IPV is essential reading for psychologists policy makers and those dealing with the sociology of social science the relationship of psychology to law and explanations of adverse behaviour Spokane River and Post Falls Hydroelectric Projects, States of Washington and Idaho, 2007 Youth and Empire David M. Pomfret, 2015-12-16 This is the first study of its kind to provide such a broadly comparative and in depth analysis of children and empire Youth and Empire brings to light new research and new interpretations on two relatively neglected fields of study the history of imperialism in East and South East Asia and more pointedly the influence of childhood and children's voices on modern empires By utilizing a diverse range of unpublished source materials drawn from three different continents David M Pomfret examines the emergence of children and childhood as a central historical force in the global history of empire in the late nineteenth and twentieth centuries This book is unusual in its scope extending across the two empires of Britain and France and to points of intense impact in tropical places where indigenous immigrant and foreign cultures mixed Hong Kong Singapore Saigon and Hanoi It thereby shows how childhood was crucial to definitions of race and thus European authority in these parts of the world By examining the various contradictory and overlapping meanings of childhood in colonial Asia Pomfret is able to provide new and often surprising readings of a set of problems that continue to trouble our contemporary world Democratic Community John W. Chapman, Ian Shapiro, 1995-06-01 A state of the art meditation on relations theoretical and practical among a familiar triad of themes communitarianism liberalism and democracy American Political Science Review A collection of distinguished contributors from a wide range of disciplines examine the implications of the

Coercive Control
Evan Stark, 2009-03-01 One of the most important books ever written on domestic violence Coercive Control breaks through entrenched views of physical abuse that have ultimately failed to protect women Evan Stark founder of one of America's first battered women's shelters shows how domestic violence is neither primarily domestic nor necessarily violent but a pattern of controlling behaviors more akin to terrorism and hostage taking Drawing on court records interviews and FBI statistics Stark details coercive strategies that men use to deny women their very personhood from beeper games to food logs to micromanaging dress speech sexual activity and work Stark urges us to move beyond the injury model and focus on the real victimization that allows men to violate women's human rights with impunity Provocative and brilliantly argued Coercive Control reframes abuse as a liberty crime rather than a crime of assault and points the way to bringing real equality for women in line with their formal rights to personhood and citizenship freedom and safety
