the later conjunctions of modernism and ethnography in the 1920s and 1930s through the work of Zora Neale Hurston Zitkala Sa and others Later sections demonstrate how contemporary writers including Ishmael Reed and Leslie Silko deal with the revaluation of traditional beliefs as spiritual resources against a background of New Age spirituality and postmodern conceptions of racial and ethnic identity Immigration Practice - 15th Edition Robert C. masculinity have been implicated with each other since the Middle Ages Feminist musicologies have already dealt extensively with music and gender from the phallogocentric tendencies of the Western tradition to the explicit marginalization of women from that tradition This book builds on that work by turning feminist critical approaches towards the production rhetorical engagement and subversion of masculinities in twelve different musical case studies In other disciplines within the arts and humanities men s studies is a well established field Musicology has only recently begun to address critically music s engagement with masculinity and as a result has sometimes thereby failed to recognize its own discursive misogyny This book does not seek to cover the field comprehensively but rather to explore in detail some of the ways in which musical practices do the cultural work of masculinity The book is structured into three thematic sections effeminate and virile musics and masculinities national masculinities national musics and identities voices discourses Within these themes the book ranges across a number of specific topics late medieval masculinities early modern discourses of music masculinity and medicine Renaissance Italian masculinities eighteenth nineteenth and early twentieth century ideas of creativity gender and canonicity masculinity imperialist and nationalist ideologies in the nineteenth century and constructions of the masculine voice in late nineteenth and twentieth century opera and song While the case studies are methodologically disparate and located in different historical and geographical locations they all share a common conc

Resolutions
Michael Renov, Erika Suderburg, 1996. Resolutions provides by far the best, boldest, and most thorough account to date of video art and activism practice and theory. The long-awaited follow-up to a project conducted by Los Angeles Contemporary Exhibitions LACE, this volume presents original articles by many of the most interesting video artists, filmmakers, and critical theorists writing today. Their subjects, from video pedagogy to emerging technologies, are many and varied, and together constitute a clear and complete picture of the state of the medium. Constructed like an inquiry into newly forming video practice, the collection at once interweaves and questions a series of relationships among politics, popular culture, artistic intervention, and social practices. The often provocative essays on topics ranging from video porn to Geraldo Rivera to lesbian representation to the politics of video memory contribute significantly to a much-needed reconceptualization of the electronic medium.

Jonathan's Loves, David's Laments
Dirk von der Horst, 2017-03-24. Jonathan's Loves, David's Laments uses early modern musical interpretations of David's Lament over Saul and Jonathan to deepen the historicist foundations of contemporary feminist and gay relational theologies. After laying out how gay theologian Gary David Comstock connects the story of David and Jonathan to the theology of lesbian theologian Carter Heyward, the argument interrogates both theological and exegetical problems in making those connections, which include contradictory theological stances with regard to modernity and history, as well as the indeterminacy of the biblical text. Early modern musical interpretations of the text allow for a double move of engaging the texts through a sensual medium, thus reinforcing queer possibilities for meaning-making from the biblical text and staying attuned to the fact that the history of interpretation reinforces the indeterminacy of the text, thus keeping queer interpretations aware of the relativizing function of historical difference.

On Monique Wittig
Namascar Shaktini, 2005. Monique Wittig, who died in January 2003, was a leading French feminist social theorist, prose poet, and novelist, and an activist who helped start the lesbian and women's liberation movements in France. This collection of essays by Wittig and on her work is the first sustained examination in English of her broad-ranging political, literary, and theoretical viewpoints. On Monique Wittig contains twelve essays representing French Francophone and U.S. critics, including three previously unpublished pieces by Wittig herself. Among the essays is Diane Griffin Crowder's discussion of the U.S. feminist movement, Linda Zerilli's consideration of gender and will, and Teresa de Lauretis's examination of the development of lesbian theory. Together, these essays situate Wittig's work in terms of the cultural contexts of its production and reception. This volume also contains the first authenticated chronology of Wittig's life and features the first translation of For a Movement of Women's Liberation, which Wittig published with other militantes in May 1970.
