Foreign Commerce and Navigation of the United States United States. Bureau of the Census, 1911 The Sensational Proletarian Kimberly Chung, 2025-07-15 Starving ghosts anguished farmers and grieving mothers Floating heads gaunt bodies and masses of bodily fluids Such are the visceral sensations exaggerated affects and suffering subjects that characterized leftist Korean cultural production in the 1920s and 1930s In popular fiction print cartoons reportage and other emergent forms of mass culture scenes detailing the spectacular bodily harms endured by figures like migrant workers tenant farmers and everyday families proliferated Yet at the time such representations were criticized as excessively grotesque and insufficiently political by leftist intellectuals and they have subsequently been overlooked by scholars in favor of socialist realism and its dynamic proletarian heroes The Sensational Proletarian by contrast focuses on these textual and visual representations to tell the story of how new affects and everyday experiences introduced by imperial capitalism and colonial modernity were mediated through the lower class body Kimberly Chung traces the emergence of the sensational proletarian as a central figure of colonial Korean print culture and reads its varied manifestations as emblematic of Korean efforts not only to grapple with modernity imperialism and capitalism but to do so using the new political ideology and imaginary of Marxism This book brings to light the centrality of sensational cultures in the development of class politics in Korea an integral relationship that continues throughout modern and contemporary Korean cultural history Official Summary of Security Transactions and Holdings Reported to the Securities and Exchange Commission Under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 , 1968 The Foreign Commerce and Navigation of the United States for the Year Ending ... , 1913 Reservatio Papalis Monica-Elena Herghelegiu, 2008 The Pontiff's power of reservation has existed for centuries it began to develop in the Middle Ages as the papacy established itself as head of the medieval Church and the entire Christianity This monograph is an analysis of the new system of papal reservations in relation to the Bishops as described in the 1983 Code of Canon Law and in the legal prescriptions of the Roman Catholic Church The study highlights the cases which the Pontiff reserves to himself removing them from the responsibility of the diocesan bishops who continue to exercise the power they possess in their own right Moral Foods Angela Ki Che Leung, Melissa L. Caldwell, 2020-02-29 Moral Foods The Construction of Nutrition and Health in Modern Asia investigates how foods came to be established as moral entities how moral food regimes reveal emerging systems of knowledge and enforcement and how these developments have contributed to new Asian nutritional knowledge regimes The collection's focus on cross cultural and transhistorical comparisons across Asia brings into view a broad spectrum of modern Asia that extends from East Asia Southeast Asia to South Asia as well as into global communities of Western knowledge practice and power outside Asia The first section Good Foods focuses on how food norms and rules have been established in modern Asia Ideas about good foods and good bodies shift at different moments in some cases privileging local foods and knowledge systems and in other cases privileging foreign foods and knowledge systems The second section Bad Foods focuses on what makes foods bad and even dangerous Bad foods are not simply unpleasant or undesirable for aesthetic or sensory reasons but they can hinder the stability and development of persons and societies Bad foods are symbolically polluting as in the case of foreign foods that threaten not only traditional foods but also the stability and strength of the nation and its people The third section Moral Foods focuses on how themes of good versus bad are embedded in projects to make modern persons subjects and states with specific attention to the ambiguities and malleability of foods and health The malleability of moral foods provides unique opportunities for understanding Asian societies dynamic position within larger global flows connections and disconnections Collectively the chapters raise intriguing questions about how foods and the bodies that consume them have been valued politically economically culturally and morally and about how those values originated and evolved Consumers in modern Asia are not simply eating to satisfy personal desires or physiological needs but they are also conscripted into national and global statemaking projects through acts of ingestion Eating then has become about fortifying both the person and the nation

The Prose of Life Benjamin M. Sutcliffe, 2009-04-13 Both before and after the collapse of the Soviet Union everyday life and the domestic sphere served as an ideological battleground simultaneously threatening Stalinist control and challenging traditional Russian gender norms that had been shaken by the Second World War The Prose of Life examines how six female authors employed images of daily life to depict women's experience in Russian culture from the 1960s to the present By a term connoting both the everyday and its many petty problems is an enduring yet neglected theme in Russian literature its very ordinariness causes many critics to ignore it Benjamin Sutcliffe's study is the first sustained examination of how and why everyday life as a literary and philosophical category catalyzed the development of post Stalinist Russian women's prose particularly since the collapse of the Soviet Union A focus on the representation of everyday life in women's prose reveals that a first generation of female writers Natal'ia Baranskaia Irina Grekova both legitimated and limited their successors Liudmila Petrushevskaia Tat'iana Tolstaia Liudmila Ulitskaia and Svetlana Vasilenko in their choice of literary topics The Prose of Life traces the development and intriguing ruptures of recent Russian women's prose becoming a must read for readers interested in Russian literature and gender studies 2009 Outstanding Academic Title Choice Magazine

Oxidants in Biology Paul A. Davis, Giuseppe Valacchi, 2008-06-06 Oxidants like other aspects of life involves tradeoffs Oxidants whether intentionally produced or by products of normal metabolism can either mediate a variety of critical biological processes but when present inappropriately cause extensive damage to biological molecules DNA proteins and lipids These effects can lead to either damage that is a major contributor to aging and degenerative diseases or to other diseases such as cancer cardiovascular disease immune system decline brain dysfunction and cataracts or normal physiological function tissue repair defense against pathogens and cellular proliferation

On the other hand the body is equipped with a complex antioxidant oxidant handling system which includes both enzymatic and nonenzymatic i e small molecules such as flavonoids ascorbate tocopherol and carotenoids produced endogenously or derived from the diet This book focuses on how the same molecules can have favorable or noxious effects depending on location level and timing Each chapter focuses on one particular molecule or oxidant antioxidant system and provides a state of the art review of the current understanding regarding both positive and negative actions of the system under review
