Postmodern Social Analysis and Criticism John W. Murphy, 1989-06-15 Although postmodernism has had clear impact on literary criticism the social and political implications of this philosophy have not been systematically investigated Murphy's study is the first to bring a broad interdisciplinary perspective to the subject and to present postmodernism as a coherent social theory Responding with compelling arguments to critics of postmodernism Murphy develops a model that offers a viable alternative to traditional approaches to conceptualizing and studying social life In an introductory chapter Murphy looks at the differences between modernism and postmodernism and discusses the metanarratives that characterize the former He goes on to clarify key assumptions and concepts especially the postmodern opposition to the traditional Western separation of subject and object In subsequent chapters he describes the research methodology used by postmodernists their views of social ontology and the relationship between order and structure and the creation of socially responsible institutions The postmodernists reconceptualization of key aspects of cultural reality including time space reason and social relations is examined in detail Murphy concludes by exploring the political ramifications of the postmodernist model and its potential as a vehicle for building a genuinely democratic society This study will be of particular interest to philosophers economists and sociologists concerned with contemporary developments in European social philosophy It is relevant to courses or study in social theory and philosophy communication theory cultural criticism and related fields Senate documents, 1876

Surjan, 2003-07-01 Development in science depends on several factors Among these the role of individual scientists is perhaps not the most important one Science is typically a body of collective knowledge and any increase in the amount of this knowledge is certainly due to strong interaction among scientists Even in the past it happened quite rarely that a single person without any aid of others discovered something fundamental or opened a new chapter in science Great figures of science history have in most cases had rather a summarizing and synthesizing role This is especially valid over the last few decades On one hand the amount of information necessary to achieve new discoveries has increased tremendously On the other hand improvement of technical facilities has increased the speed of information exchange These factors resulted in a degree of specialization in science that had never been seen before Most of us are experts and specialists rather than scientists in the classical sense My personal feeling is that even nowadays there is a strong need for professionals with a broad knowledge and comprehensive mind although they may not be competitive in the number of their publications or the sizes of their grants Every time I have met such a person I can count these cases on my fingers I have become deeply influenced by his or her strong intellect Report on the Subject of a Sinking Fund for the Several Pacific Railroad Companies ,1876 web conclusion in this lab we used titration to explore the concepts of stoichiometry and equivalence points we found the concentration of an unknown substance by mixing 2M HCl with the NaOH of unknown concentration in order to experimentally ascertain the concentration of the NaOH this is a chemistry lab report on an acid base titration experiment - Dec 28 2021

web this point of titration is referred to as the equivalence point considering the 1:1 stoichiometry of this acid base reaction $NaOH$ aq C_6H_4COOH aq C_6H_4COONa aq H_2O l the point of equivalence is the point of titration when the number of moles of NaOH added is equal to the number of moles of KHP in the
