New Ecologies for the Twenty-First Century Associate Professor of Political Science Arun Agrawal, 2014-05-21 Annotation In Kumaon in northern India villagers set hundreds of forest fires in the early 1920s protesting the colonial British state's regulations to protect the environment Yet by the 1990s they had begun to conserve their forests carefully In his innovative historical and political study Arun Agrawal analyzes this striking transformation He describes and explains the emergence of environmental identities and changes in state locality relations and shows how the two are related In so doing he demonstrates that scholarship on common property political ecology and feminist environmentalism can be combined in an approach he calls environmentalism to better understand changes in conservation efforts Such an understanding is relevant far beyond Kumaon local populations in more than fifty countries are engaged in similar efforts to protect their environmental resources Agrawal brings environment and development studies new institutional economics and Foucauldian theories of power and subjectivity to bear on his ethnographical and historical research He visited nearly forty villages in Kumaon where he assessed the state of village forests interviewed hundreds of Kumaonis and examined local records Drawing on his extensive fieldwork and archival research he shows how decentralization strategies change relations between states and localities community decision makers and common residents and individuals and the environment In exploring these changes and their significance Agrawal establishes that theories of environmental politics are enriched by attention to the interconnections between power knowledge institutions and subjectivities Foucault, Governmentality, and Critique Thomas Lemke, 2015-12-03 Michel Foucault is one of the most cited authors in social science This book discusses one of his most influential concepts governmentality Reconstructing its emergence in Foucault's analytics of power the book explores the theoretical strengths the concept of governmentality offers for political analysis and critique It highlights the intimate link between neoliberal rationalities and the problem of biopolitics including issues around genetic and reproductive technologies This book is a useful introduction to Foucault's work on power and governmentality suitable for experts and students alike Space, Knowledge and Power Stuart Elden, 2016-04-01 Michel Foucault's work is rich with implications and insights concerning spatiality and has inspired many geographers and social scientists to develop these ideas in their own research. This book, the first to engage Foucault's geographies in detail from a wide range of perspectives, is framed around his discussions with the French geography journal Hérodote in the mid 1970s. The opening third of the book comprises some of Foucault's previously untranslated work on questions of space, a range of responses from French and English language commentators and a newly translated essay by Claude Raffestin, a leading Swiss geographer. The rest of the book presents specially commissioned essays which examine the remarkable reception of Foucault's work in English and French language geography, situate Foucault's project historically and provide a series of developments of his work in the contemporary contexts of power, biopolitics, governmentality and war. Contributors include a number of key figures in social spatial theory such as David Harvey, Chris Philo, Sara Mills, Nigel Thrift, John Agnew, Thomas Flynn and Matthew Hannah. Written in an open and engaging tone, the contributors discuss just what they find valuable and frustrating about Foucault's geographies. This is a book which will both surprise and challenge.

Explorations in Planning Theory Seymour J. Mandelbaum, Luigi Mazza, Robert W. Burchell, What is this thing called planning? What is its domain? What do planners do? How do they talk? What are the limits and possibilities for planning imposed by power, politics, knowledge, technology, interpretation, ethics and institutional design? In this comprehensive volume, the foremost voices in planning explore the foundational ideas and issues of the profession. Explorations in Planning Theory is an extended inquiry into the practice of the profession. As such, it is a landmark text that defines the field for today's planners and the next generation. As Seymour J. Mandelbaum notes in the introduction, the shared framework of these essays captures a pervasive interest in the behavior, values, character and experience of professional planners at work. All of the chapters in this volume are written to address arguments that are important in the community of planning theoreticians and are crafted in the language of that community. While many of the contributors included here differ in their styles, the editors note that students, experienced practitioners and scholars of city and regional planning will find this work illuminating and helpful in their research.

Unlearning the Colonial Cultures of Planning Libby Porter, 2016-02-24 Colonialization has never failed to provoke discussion and debate over its territorial, economic and political projects and their ongoing consequences. This work argues that the state-based activity of planning was integral to these projects in conceptualizing, shaping and managing place in settler societies. Planning was used to appropriate and then produce territory for management by the state and in doing so became central to the colonial invasion of settler states. Moreover, the book demonstrates how the colonial roots of planning endure in complex post-colonial societies and how such roots manifest in everyday planning practice, continue to shape land use contests between indigenous people and planning systems in contemporary post-colonial states.

Planning Futures Philip Allmendinger, Mark Tewdwr-Jones, 2005-06-29 This book is an up-to-date reader on planning theory. By drawing upon examples from planning practice and case study scenarios the authors ensure that the work discussess planning theory within the context of present planning practice

French Modern Paul Rabinow,2014-06-01 In this study of space and power and knowledge in France from the 1830s through the 1930s Rabinow uses the tools of anthropology philosophy and cultural criticism to examine how social environment was perceived and described Ranging from epidemiology to the layout of colonial cities he shows how modernity was revealed in urban planning architecture health and welfare administration and social legislation

Spaces of Colonialism Stephen Legg,2008-09-15 Examines the residential policed and infrastructural landscapes of New and Old Delhi under British Rule The first book of its kind to present a comparative history of New and Old Delhi Draws on the governmentality theories and methodologies presented in Michel Foucault s lecture courses Looks at problems of social and racial segregation the policing of the cities and biopolitical needs in urban settings Undertakes a critique of colonial governmentality on the basis of the lived spaces of everyday life

The Power of Planning Oren Yiftachel,Jo Little,David Hedgcock,Ian Alexander,2002-04-30 The book addresses critically the question What is the societal impact of urban and regional planning It begins with a theoretical discussion and then analyses through a series of case studies the intentions contents struggles and consequences of urban and regional planning It shows that plans and policies often defy the commonly perceived role of advancing equality justice development and amenity by causing social problems marginalisation and inequalities The book looks at planning from a critical distance without a priori belief in its necessity or usefulness The 12 chapters written by renowned international scholars demonstrate the multiplicity of social and political struggles over the contested terrain of spatial policies The book focuses on four key areas where the impact of planning is explored the community power gender relations ethnic tensions and social polarisation while comparing three societies Australia Israel and England Audience This volume is mainly intended for faculty and students of academia but also for urban professionals and policy makers The book is relevant to fields such as urban and regional planning geography political science urban studies urban sociology urban anthropology ethnic and gender relations
